

Abstract: With a very complex compute stack involving digital circuits, microarchitecture, operating system, Compiler and applications a detailed understanding of all layers and exploiting the features of many of them to ensure security is a must. This talk shall provide a overview of the secure artefacts at microArchitecture level and how the same could be used by higher layers to build a complete secure stack