

Abstract: Integer factorization is one of the major open problems in modern day number theory. RSA, the widely used public key cryptosystem, builds upon the computational hardness of factorization. In this talk, we will first discuss RSA algorithm. Next we discuss lattice and famous LLL algorithm. We show how one can use LLL algorithm to analyse RSA using a method due to Coppersmith.